Paul Writes to the Churches

Paul wrote to 7 Gentile churches like Rome, Ephesus, Corinth and others...

During Paul's first Missionary Journey where they traveled to Cyprus

- He also sent a letter to the Galatians which mainly was written addressing the critical issues of faith and law.

- For example, Paul reaffirms his former teachings that the Mosaic Law is obsolete and that if they returned to Jewish practice like circumcision to therefore regressive through the faith.

Paul's most stood out letter was to the Ephesians. Where he had an extortionary vision which was trying to address the concerns, challenges, and needs of early Christian communities and their practices

It was said it was written with so much wisdom about unity, enriching your faith , and clarifying the depth of the church mystery which was his overall goal as a missionary.
